“THEY’RE A LUXURY UNTIL YOU NEED THEM.” That’s what Mark Newby says of the implements he bought for his Massey Ferguson GC2410. “But once you need them, then they’re essential.”

Newby, who owns a horse-riding training school in Webster, Fla., called Suncoast Equine (see the story about him, “Saddle Up,” on page 12), recounts how his box blade helped him create a safe, level riding arena and his landscape rake helps him keep it in shape. “I bought that rake, and that’s probably one of the things I use most often. That’s because I rake the riding arena with it to keep it properly maintained and have good footing for the horses.” >>
